

JIWANKO SAATHIHARU:

JEREMY SAXE FOUNDATION FOR
EDUCATION AND DEVELOPMENT, INC.

Our Inspiration

Jiwanko Saathiharu honors the life of Jeremy Saxe, who experienced a transforming semester abroad in Nepal through School for International Training/Nepal Culture and Development. He fell in love with the spirituality of the culture, and the warmth and generosity of the Nepali people, but as his eyes bore witness to the gross disparity in resources that exists in our world he became "livid." This powerful experience propelled him to commit his future to help level the playing field for the disadvantaged and work toward alleviating poverty and injustice through international development.

Tragically, on September 4, 2008, Jeremy died suddenly and unexpectedly of an undiagnosed heart condition, hypertrophic cardiomyopathy. A natural leader with abundant positive energy, integrity, insightful intelligence, compassion and good humor, Jeremy inspired all that knew him. Jeremy's spirit, inspiration, and mission live on through the work of his legacy foundation: providing quality education and development initiatives in Nepal.

In Nepal, Jeremy is known by his Nepali name, Jivan ("Life"). Jiwanko Saathiharu means "Friends of Jeremy/Friends of Life."

Thank you friends for joining us on this journey. Together we will build a more prosperous future for our friends in Nepal.
